ADJECTIVE + PAST PARTICIPLE	That is an old-fashioned dress
ADJECTIVE + PRESENT PARTICIPLE	She is a good-looking girl.

Causes of generation gap:

- Lack of understanding: this is due to social changes, different languages and the invasion of social media
- Parents often do not tolerate mistakes and tend to punish their children.
- Comparing children to each other or even to how you were as a child is another reason the gap becomes wide.
- Parents expect their children to be replicas of themselves.
- Due to busy daily life and stress, parents often find themselves too tired to spend enough time with their kids every day.

Ways to avoid generation gap:

- You should focus on similarities and not the differences between the various generations.
- Communication is the key in bridging age gap.
- Parents should be open-minded and children should be respectful.
- Parents need to allow their kids time to talk without interruption and listen to what they have to say.
- Love has a way of crossing boundaries and bringing people together

Comparison of equality

The As + Adjective + As structure is used to express equality.

The As + much / many + noun + as is also used to express equality.

Examples:

- David is 15 years old. John is 15 years old, too.
⇒ He's as old as me.
- She spends 15 dinars each week. I spend 15 dinars each week, too.
⇒ I spend as much money a week as her.

When to give children pocket money:

Children might be ready to try managing some pocket money if they can understand that:

- they need money to buy things
- it's important to save money, and not spend it all
- spending all their money today means there's no more until the next payment.

How much pocket money?

You can base your decision about how much pocket money to give on:

- what your family budget will allow
- how old your child is
- what you expect pocket money to pay for

Tips on giving pocket money:

- Explain to your child what pocket money is for and what it isn't for.
- Negotiate guidelines about how much money can go into saving, spending and donating.
- Pay what you can afford, regardless of what other parents (or your child!) might say.
- Pay it on a set day. You might choose to pay weekly, fortnightly or monthly.
- Try not to supplement pocket money or pay in advance.

Tips to manage pocket money:

- You should budget for the week or fortnight ahead
- You should control your spending
- You should save money

Grammar:

Maybe and perhaps express uncertainty. We use them when we think something is possible, but we are not certain. We use maybe mostly in front or end position whereas perhaps is used in front, mid and end position:

A: Have you seen my glasses? I can't find them anywhere.

B: Maybe you left them at work.

A: Do you think these shoes are too high?

B: They are perhaps. (it's possible but I'm not certain)

On the contrary, when we are sure of something, we use “no doubt” + a declarative sentence to express certainty.

Example: He got bad marks. There is no doubt he will fail his exam.

The benefits of entertainment:

- Entertainment relieves stress: When you get quality entertainment, your mind thinks of other things, and releases endorphins, hormones that are responsible for feeling good.
- It provides employment: A game streamer broadcasts his or herself in real time while playing video games and he/she can earn money
- Entertainment nurtures culture. Reading books and watching films can broaden one's horizons

Grammar:

Exclamations

We use exclamations to express surprise or shock or a strong emotion about something.

We usually form exclamatives with what or how. In writing, we usually put an exclamation mark (!) at the end of the exclamative:

What an amazing car!

How I love the summer holidays!

What ...!

We can use + noun phrase (+ verb):

What	Noun phrase	Verb
What	a beautiful day!	∅
What	a beautiful day	it is!
What	bad luck!	∅
What	bad luck	they had!

How ...!

We often use how followed by an adjective only:

How sweet!

How lovely!

How amazing!

We can use How + adjective/adverb + subject + verb:

How interesting it was to hear her story!

How wonderful it is to see you!

How beautifully she sang! Everyone was delighted.

Expressing satisfaction:
