Generation gap is the major reason today why parents and children are moving away from each other. Today generation doesn't like others.....in any of their personal matters, they don't like parents.....them, and if they try and tell them what is wrong for them, they.....with their parents. Generation gap is basically created by the people themselves. They don't talk.....their children and.....their own points of views with the children. The point is that the parents are just.....busy with their work that they feel.....and don't have time for their family and their children. At time you.....to act as a friend to your children in order to understand them more nicely/

B/ Fill in the blanks with eight words from the list below:

So, as soon.....I came back home after school, she made me clean the kitchen floor, do some washing up and.....cut vegetables. Then she would.....me play outside with my friends or with my older brother who was..... to us his free time doing whatever he liked.

D/ Supply the right tense or form of the words in parentheses

Things change by the passing of time and in the same way requirements of life also change during that duration. It is not necessary that people like those things, which their parents (like)..... 20or 30years back. As I mentioned before that things change by the passage of time and people have (adopt)..... those things, which are currently required by the people. Sometimes parents feel ill on the habits, attitudes and behavior of their children but they (not/realize)..... the current requirements of their children. They go on (give)..... examples of the past and irritate their children for nothing. I think parents should only guide children (proper) ..... and let them (enjoy).....their present. By these conflicts, which take place between parents and children, it is said there is a generation gap.
